Nutshell News And Comment

Last week County Judge Barker was driving to his home in Anchorage at the end of the day, when, just before entering Middletown, he came upon the scene of an auto collision which had just occurred.

The two cars were in a ditch and the occupants were crawling out bruised and dazed.

The judge stopped his car and went to the aid of two soldiers who were the worst hurt. One had a deep gash in his leg and was bleeding profusely.

A veteran of more than one first class Barker set to work, contrived a tourniquet and before the county police arrived had stopped the bleeding and the soldier was ready to be moved to the hospital.

The other wounded soldier suffered minor cuts and bruises to which the judge attended.

In the last two weeks examples of local administration of justice offer puzzling problems regarding the vagaries of human mental processes.

In Louisville two youths 21 and 23 years of age former of fenders, broke into a restaurant at 2 o'clock in the morning and robbed the cash register, but the safe, committed ruthless acts of vandalism and damage amounting to approximately $500. Indicted and put on trial they were given 3 years penitentiary.

A few days later a nineteen-year-old boy who robbed an A.P. grocery of approximately $100 was given a ten year sentence to be spent in the penitentiary.

The guilt of these three boys was definitely established. The disparity of the penalties was pronounced. In one case the offenders go practically unscathed. In the other a heavy duty was applied.

To further emphasize the lack of intelligent disposal of these cases, of these youths was definitely a psychiatric problem in need of special treatment.

"Justice isn't blind, she's cockeyed."

City police descended on the Haymarket neighborhood Monday night and gathered in more than 40 suspects and delinquents in a burst of effort that would be more effective if it were sustained.

This district which should be sanitary in several meanings of the word is most unsavory. Hold-ups, pick-pockets, purse snatchers, drunk rollers, and other social misfits are a continual menace to more decent citizens who find it necessary to visit the district to buy food, patronize farmers or sell garden truck.

The property is out of repair, the streets and sidewalks are filthy, rats prowl in the gutter, and yet, here is the largest concentration of food in the city.

It is a job for the cooperative efforts of the police, the health department, the welfare department, the street cleaning department and the building inspector.

County Auto Deaths Show 1946 Increase

The report of the Louisville Safety Council for January and February 1946, shows nine deaths in the county attributed to motor accidents, an increase of five over the same period in February 1945.

Louisville however, had only 7 fatal fatalities compared to 14 for the same period last year. Floyd county, Indiana increased its death record from 3 in 1945 to 10 in 1946.

In this year, and Clark county reported one fatality or the same as in the two first months of 1945.

The total accidental deaths in the county for January and February 1946 were 12 and in the same period of 1945 the count was eleven. Louisville fatalities in 1946 have been 23 against 39 in 1945. A 41 percent reduction.

Sublette States Case Of Volunteer Firemen

B. N. Sublette, of Middletown, and J. H. Buttermann, of Buchel, appeared before the Fiscal Court recently with a restraining order, signed by Judge Lawrence Speckman, forbidding the purchase of three fire pumps by the Court.

Earlier, it is said, a meeting was held with Walter Shackleton, of Worthington, and former County Commissioner James W. Henning and representatives of the local auxiliary bureau present and plans were laid for the injunction.

That fire protection is inadequate for the 100,000 residents of the county is undisputed. A number of volunteer departments, many of them organized since Pearl Harbor with the encouragement of civilian defense authorities, have done and are doing excellent and public spirited work in serving their immediate communities.

Recently the appointment of County Fire Chief Thompson an experienced fireman with 28 years of fire-fighting behind him, encouraged county tax-payers to believe that this long neglected side of county welfare was to be given expert and professional attention.

It was generally accepted that the appointment of a fire chief was a step toward establishment of county fire stations with modern equipment and full time men who protected the purchase of the equipment. Sublette stated that the Middle-town Volunteer Department declined to be a party to any action against the court.

Pursuant to a resolution passed by the club in February, James A. Moak, secretary of the body, has sent to Harry L. Swain, operator of the Blue Motor Coach Lines, a request to be present at the meeting to be held Monday night. Officers of the club stated it is hoped that, at least, a better understanding on the part of the public may be gained as a result of the proposed discussion.

Questioned concerning the viewpoint of the volunteers, B. N.

County Baseball Plans Discussed at Meeting

At a baseball organization meeting, held at the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board Office Monday night, Charlie Vettner, Assistant Supervisor of County Recreation, presented plans for organization of two baseball leagues in the county, one to represent the eastern section and the other to represent the western section.

Ten representatives of various county sections attended and numbered on the list of interested parties were: Bud Griffith, Okolona; Leo Muenninghoff and Earl Sambury, Shelby; and Clarence Barker of Camp Taylor. All of the team managers present were favorably impressed with the set-up proposed by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board.

This set-up calls for two four team leagues operating under supervision of the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board in the following manner: Each league will elect a president and board of directors to conduct and carry out the business of the leagues; the teams will equip themselves, with the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board supplying promotion.

Last spring leaders of the High View area contacted Ray Beyer, supervisor of county recreation and asked for a study of recreational needs of the district.

Programs were held at the school which were featured by folk dancing, group games, and other popular forms of play. The program of the High View P. A. club, presiding and the following guests present:

Ray Beyer, assistant supervisor of county recreation, Charlie Vettner, O. J. Stivers, school president; Mrs. Joe Baete, president of the district; Mrs. H. W. Koehler and Mrs. Maud Hughes, of chicken and dumplings and the trimmings added a festive note to the occasion.

Afterwards, Ray Beyer inspected the grounds and spotted locations for the erection of the equipment. Soon the children will be enjoying the slides and swings under the watchful eye of Julian Alcorn and Miss Helen Kuehn, teachers at High View.

The line of hardware and household supplies now carried by this progressive firm represents a service to the community and reflects credit on the forward looking management of Chas. L. Kincaid, senior partner, and his son Robert.

In addition to the new store enlargement the hardware firm has recently added extensive warehousing facilities on the rear floor plan, located on the Main Street Public Reference.

Four Fives Tied In St. Matthews Tourney

The Masonic Home ball toters took the St. Matthews Independent into a close and interesting 33 to 22 and Bill Boggs of the Home pinched the basket for 14 points. Jack Burke led the losers with 6 markers.

In a third game St. Matthews Athletic Club fought desperately and pounded the Hilltoppers No. 1 for a 43 to 38 win. Bill Craddock rolled up 18 markers for the winners and Danny Kline netted 14 points for the defenders.

When the statistics got busy at the end of the three games and totaled the results, it was discovered that four teams were tied for first place in the league. Hilltoppers No. 1, the Crescent Hill, 2, St. Matthews Athletic Club and the Masonic Home all had 6 wins and 3 losses.

Next Tuesday night, at the Bethel gym, the four teams will go through an elimination to decide the league champion. The night promises to be the scene of one of the most thrilling basketball programs in the county this year.

Recreation Building Is Jeffersonstown Plan

Monday night at the regular meeting of the Jeffersontown Area Recreation Board, a committee composed of Rev. James Moak, chairman, Carl Lamar and Luke Brown was appointed to investigate the feasibility of erecting a general recreation building on the Jeffersontown playground grounds.

The board is considering a structure capable of housing bowling alleys, roller skating rink, play rooms, library, auditorium, handicraft shops and conference rooms.

The addition of three new members, Mrs. F. W. Mahin, Mrs. B. H. Dean, and Carl Lamar together with a boy and a girl elected from the Jeffersontown High School junior class and two returned overseas veterans will complete the maximum board membership of seven. The veterans will be appointed while the student members will be elected by their classmates.

Luke Brown, vice-chairman; Mrs. Marshall Krieger, and Mrs. Marshall Krieger, secretary and Mrs. James McCracken, treasurer. Board members re-elected were, Rev. James Moak, Mrs. A. B. Wigginton, H. H. Basketball Tourney Attracts County Teams

The county-wide basketball tournament, sponsored by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board, is attracting some excellent teams and a fine tournament is anticipated. Returning veterans are taking full advantage of this phase of the Jefferson County Recreation program and are gathering many of the county high school stars, former stars and molding them into a team for the future.

Teams from Fairdale, Prestonia, Camp Taylor and Buchel have already officially entered at this early date. The prospects indicate that more than sixteen teams will be represented at the tournament meeting at the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board Office, 402 Fiscal Court Building, next Monday, March 15, at 8 p.m.

A team formed at Fairdale under the name of Barons, boasts such stars as Dallas Arnold and Kenny Arnold, veterans of the war, with the nation's Pacific Valley High show "veterans whose names are household words in the athletic field."

Some neighborhoods have residents who danced these old-fashioned figures in the past. It would not be long before the county could provide demonstrations of every national dance.

Requests coming into the recreation office for leaders for folk dancing and square dancing are growing and a group could be built around any person interested in reviving these traditional dances.

WE SHOULD BUILD FOR THE FUTURE

It isn't surprising to hear talk of building materials being hard to get. It is, evidently not just because the supply is short, but due, in great measure, to the fact that there is an unprecedented boom in building activities at this time.

Taking, for example, the local situation, there are more buildings under construction in this community just now than have ever been at any time heretofore. All over this county residences and business houses are being erected on all sides. In whatever direction one looks there is to be seen a pile of cement blocks, or other building materials, waiting to be built into walls of a dwelling house or a building to house some commercial enterprise.

A pertinent question is, what is to be the pattern of expansion now under way, both in town and countryside? It's time to exercise vision with an eye to planning for future sightliness and convenience in the arrangement of housing units. Just going ahead in a fashion of hit and miss is likely to prove expensive, as well as unattractive in the long run.

Although all of our incorporated areas probably have some sort of building regulations, these, in some instances, need to be brought up to date, revised and enforced, to insure a pleasing arrangement of the community's physical layout. Some of the fish interests run counter to public welfare, making the matter of planning a difficult problem. Nevertheless, every effort should be made to have everybody see the picture as a whole.

At a recent meeting of the Jefferson County Board of Health, it was made an unusual request. It sounded strange, indeed, to hear a resident from beyond the town's border request the trustees to extend the municipal area to take him in. Ordinarily they would stay out as long as possible. It's only natural for people to want all the protection available at as little cost as possible.

The point we wish to make here is that, in due time, each and every community should fix its own building code to best serve its future interests, as respects its beauty, its health and its general welfare. It should be in all other forms of constructive living, giving a little as well as taking a little on the part of all its citizens.

The Chicago Teachers Digest carries an article concerning the revolutionary methods in practice in the Cleveland schools where "flunking" is a thing of the past, that everyone interested in education should read.

It should be noted especially in Jefferson County where innovation is automatically marked with the brand of "not wanted."

Letters to the Editor

VISIT TO DAYTONA BEACH
To The Jeffersonian:
On Tuesday February 26, Mr. M. Hayes of St. Cloud, Fla., his family, Mrs. Dickson and Mr. Dickson, a round trip of one hundred eighty-nine (189) miles from St. Cloud, Fla. to Daytona Beach, a round trip of one hundred eighty-nine (189) miles from Daytona Beach to St. Cloud, Fla. This is the first time my wife and I had ever seen the Atlantic or the Gulf of Mexico. When we crossed the Halifax River between Daytona and Daytona Beach, we were met by the waves of the great ocean. Tears came to my eyes and I could see the greatness and majesty of God in His creation.

The world famous Daytona Beach is a natural speedway which nature has created with every day. The hard packed sand and on the nature's surface which has enabled motorists to obtain world speed records. One may drive for twenty-three (23) miles along this strip of sand which at low tide is 500 feet wide.

I saw millions of hundreds of automobiles and people taking sun baths on the ocean beach. I interviewed two young lawyers and had just arrived from the beach. They said it was ten degrees below zero and there were thirteen inches of snow when they left home. They were sun bathing on the ocean beach. Only a few were bathing in the water as the tide came in, the water was too cold for me to bathe, though it was cooler that day. The beautiful Daytona Beach is one of the most if not the most famous beaches of the world, even more beautiful than Miami I am told. The town of Daytona Beach is very beautiful and has over 50,000 people with the tourists, some of whom are very wealthy.

We returned through the garden and celery growing region around Sanford. I saw them hauling celery by the large truck loads. In one place near Indian Creek what is said to be the largest tree of its kind in the United States. The Big Cypress, 125 feet tall 47 feet in diameter, 90 feet to the first limb. C. K. DICKY.

The Fiscal Court In Action

MARCH 6, 1946
County Treasurer James E. Tierney's report was read and filed. The county's balance as of March 5, 1946, was $80,130.92. Checks in the following amount were received from the first, second and third Magisterial Courts: $605.06, $425.53 and $400.07.

Arthur J. Seibert appeared before the Court to request the return of the county seal which he had lost. The Court ordered the seal to be replaced.

Wake up KENTUCKY
BY EWING GALLOWAY

KENTUCKY IS FAMOUS
In the foreword of his broad report on education in Kentucky, Dr. Maurice F. Sey, of the University of Kentucky says:

"Whenever I leave Kentucky, my friends outside the state remind me that Kentucky is famous—famous for beautiful women, fast horses, good whiskey and good people. My only comeback is, we are good people, from good stock, sons and daughters and cousins of the people who built America."

"After I have said that, I have a fat feeling."

Slavery was legal under the Kentucky constitution for nearly seven years after the Emancipation. We got around to abolishing it in 1891, when our present constitution was adopted.

For many years an enlightened majority clamored for a new constitution, to replace the 1850 edition, but the masses were too ignorant and lethargic to do so. In his recent report on the present constitution written for the Committee for Education, says, it was ignorance and lethargy rather than any pronounced opposition that blocked enlightened political leaders in their efforts to modernize the basic law of the state.

A vote was taken in 1884, with only 73,704 out of 168,173 voting for a Constitutional Convention. That made the case seem almost hopeless. But the proponents of a new constitution were not quitters. In 1887 they won 162,572 to 49,795 with 65,558 not voting at all. No such indifference is expected when the people vote on the next Constitutional Convention.

Brann, the incoherent, widely known four decades ago as a political editor was a man of culture when he wasn't busy attacking somebody's private life. In a short story of literary form Brann said a novel is a short story padded. By the same line of reasoning most newspaper work would contribute toward the selling end of the business.

COURT ADJOURNS AT 3:30 P.M.
COUNTY FIRM ADOPTS PLAN

"This was important. Everytime a human makes a use of somebody must pay for it. And I know that the only person who would be asked to pay that bill was the one who employed the person. I would necessarily have to cut somewhere and any cut I made would penalize the customer. By not employing salesmen, I could put that money in better service and penalize the customer something of value for his money."

"After I had decided to cut overhead expenses, I was faced with the problem of informing the customer that I had decided to discontinue the quality and service of work and industry as well as to sell."

"The quickest and most direct way was by advertising in the plain unvarnished truth. I used the newspapers and direct mail. In a meeting with the customers I told what I had ready in stock and as a reminder I followed up with a postal notice circular in the area I wished to serve."

"This I discovered was effective. He said the directness less visits to my display rooms. They knew knowing what I had to offer—confident that the articles I carried were standard—and experience proved that installation and service were satisfactory. They found my method saved them money and they told their friends."

"There is an old adage: 'You Get Just What You Pay For.' I have remembered that. My customers don't get gaudy display rooms to go to nor find that charged on their bill. They do not have to listen to an enthusiastic salesman and don't have to pay for that. I operate from my farm and my patrons are charged no rent. I get their information directly regarding the items in stock and they do not make unnecessary visits to my showrooms. I carry only guaranteed standard makes of machinery which means a score of 'no errors' when they purchase. I have a qualified mechanic which insures satisfaction in installation and operation with no extra charge."

"There are just a few of the principles on which I have based my business, but they are proving very effective. Every month shows a steady increase in sales and a comparative extension of the lines we carry."

"Farm and home appliances and machinery of every kind will be offered under the streamer of plan as fast as the merchandise becomes available."

(Another article giving the experience of Mr. Tierney in drawing business to the county from Louisville will be published in an early issue of The Jeffersonian.)

THE EVERYDAY LIFE OF PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT: Ruth 1:1-17. MEMORY VERSE: Ruth 1:13. Interpret: I will not leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: for thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.—Ruth 1:16.

A good life in the midst of a corrupt and confused age—such is the life of Ruth in the eventful class of the time of the judges. One is reminded of the poet's words:

"How far that little candle throws its beams!
How shall we hear the soft subliminal
Shines a good deed in a naughty world."

It is refreshing to have a glimpse into the home life of God-fearing people who live right in spite of the low standards around them.

As we read our lesson we find a bitter disappointment. She was a widow, destitute of all she held most dear. Her husband had died, and she was left with two young sons and a mother-in-law who was not kind to her.

Veterans Service Bureau

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Jefferson Bureau of Western News Service, is publishing the following columns on problems of veterans and servicemen. The questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper.

Factors That Determine Veterans' Pension Rate

Where veterans of World War II have a disability incurred in or aggravated by service in the armed forces, there is no set disability pension rate. The amount payable is determined by the degree of disability upon examination by the Veterans' Administration.

The rates of pension range from $11.50 per month for a disability of a degree of 10 per cent to $115 per month for a total disability, and certain specific disabilities occur, such as loss of hands or legs, or blindness, or combinations of disabilities, the amount payable may be as high as $250 per month. The rate is determined by the degree of disability upon examination by the Veterans' Administration.

Many times, the experience according to the Veterans' Administration, World War I veterans applying for pensions years after World War I ended, are connected disability are turned down because the Veterans' Administration decides the disability is due to the "willful misconduct or vicious habit" of the veterans.

Questions and Answers

Q. My son has been in the army for 25 months and spent 15 months in France. He is now in Germany. He is with the 24th Quartermaster truck company. Does war department have any plan when this company will be shipped home?—Mrs. H. N. Flannery, N. D.

A. As of February 15 this outfit was in Austria, Germany, and the German situation is very uncertain. When it will be returned to this country.

Q. My son, who is in Japan, made out his insurance papers to me before he went overseas. I have been waiting since that time to have them to have my name on the policy?—Mrs. J. W. Fort Bragg.

A. The Veterans' Administration says it would not make much difference, but would probably save some time in the event the insurance became payable. The insurance application should be made.

Q. I am a widow of a World War I veteran who is elderly and in poor health, eligible for a pension if the annual income of my husband—Mrs. W. M. Arlington, Mass.

A. If death was service-connected, yes, she is entitled to a pension. If not service-connected, she is not entitled if her income is $1,000 or more annually, if she has no children. I would ask your nearest Veterans' Administration office, however, because the law says that certain items are not considered income and determination as to whether the claimant's income exceeds the respective amount is made by the Veterans' Administration.

Q. My son was given an honorable discharge in May, 1945. I wish to know if he should draw a pension as he was wounded in Belgium. He is with the 24th Quartermaster truck company. Does war department have any plan when this company will be shipped home?—Mrs. H. N. Flannery, N. D.

X-Service Men's NEWS

By Claude S. Sprowls
Executive-Secretary Kentucky
X-Service Men's Board,
Lexington 5, Ky.

Working in cooperation with the War Assets Corporation, the Kentucky X-Service Men's Board is rendering a valuable service to veterans of World War II in assisting them to obtain Certificates of Veterans Preference for the purchase of government surplus property.

Acting on the belief that during the present period of scarcity of new manufactured tools and equipment the economic welfare of many farms and small businesses conducted by veterans throughout Kentucky will be improved, it has been determined that the use of government surplus supplies, the Kentucky X-Service Men's Board is making every effort in behalf of the returning soldier and sailor desiring to reestablish himself on the farm.

The bulk of all equipment declared surplus is used, the sale price to veterans will be at the price consistent with the estimated expense necessarily to be incurred in repairing it to an operable condition.

Veterans who served after September 16, 1940, and prior to the present period of scarcity of new manufactured tools and equipment, and who were honorably discharged are given a preference in the purchase of surplus property. The agencies of the Federal Government, States and Cities, and tax-exempt organizations, such as the Veterans' Administration, are given such preference as is given only to veterans who require such property in maintaining their own existing business, or farm, or in starting their own new enterprise, it is that hoped that in the future they will be able to buy for any use with first priority.

It is toward this objective that the Veterans' Administration is working. A "small business" may include any commercial or industrial enterprise that employs at least 100 employees at the time of purchase, and of which more than 50% of the invested capital is net income thereof, owned by, or accrues to, a veteran or group of veterans. A veteran who has been honorably discharged is given preference in purchasing particular tools or equipment when the veteran is engaged in such employment to have his own business, or farm, or in starting their own new enterprise, it is that hoped that in the future they will be able to buy for any use with first priority.

Credit arrangements may be made in certain cases through the regional offices of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Actual purchases are usually made by certified check presented to the disbursal agency at the time of sale.

Once a veteran has been issued a Certificate of Preference, he should take it to the nearest office of the War Assets Corporation, where the Veterans Service Section, and the Irish named the world time and place of sale. Every effort is being made to insure fair prices for the goods of being referred to Mr. J. E. Stivers, who has occasioned veterans have arrived at sales in the early morning hours of being referred to the first addressee.

Applications for surplus property are accepted at the office of the Kentucky X-Service Men's Board at the Veterans Administration Hospital. All inquiries are referred to Mr. J. E. Stivers, who is conducting this program for the Board.

St. Patrick Became Symbol of Irishmen

On March 17 we honor St. Patrick, the inspiration and the symbol of the Irish Catholic spirit, that unique blend of the Celtic and the Gaelic that has characterized the Irish.

Patrick taught the Irish to be independent, to be free, to be responsible for their own actions. He gave them the warrant of the Irish Catholic spirit, that unique blend of the Celtic and the Gaelic that has characterized the Irish.

New Plymouth Makes Bow

Engineering advances have stressed both performance and safety. A host of engineering improvements have given the new 95 horsepower Floating Power engine brilliant performance characteristics.

In a car engineered throughout for greatest safety, several features exclusive to Chrysler-built cars mark the new Plymouth for particular attention. Foremost is the new exclusive safety hydraulic brake increasing braking effectiveness from 35 to 40 per cent.

The new Plymouth has a new exclusive safety rim wheel which so grips the tire that it is practically impossible to dislodge a blowout, for, if it does, the rim or slip crossways to the wheel, creating hazard with ordinary rim.

Complete redesigning of front end, fenders, mudguards and bumpers, coupled with smooth-flowing body lines, have given the new Plymouth a manliness, length and low appearance found formerly only in higher-priced cars. Interior trim is new, more new, achieving a rich, restful beauty of particular appeal to women.

SCHOOL METHODS ANTIQUATED

By Trebor Cam Llewellyn P.P.

There is a weakness in the present system of school control that is negatively responsible for the extremely inefficient operation of the majority of our educational institutions.

One of the most blatant errors is the placing of the principal in the position of the school board members who are astonishingly incapable. This applies to the practice in the United States.

Cloning the majority of time of a child during its twelve most susceptible years, the school accepts a responsibility that it is poorly equipped to handle.

The average boy and girl is amazingly careless of his or her duties. Time that should be spent in the study of the fundamentals of schools and devising better methods of housing, equipment and organization is devoted entirely to such items as budget manipulation, preferential allotment of funds to certain schools and endorsement of policy conceived and executed by sometimes incompetent superintendents.

As a result we have incompetency all through the system. The law gives the board of education the custody of children from 6 to 16 years of age, five days a week and from five to 16 months of the year.

The accomplishment of this trust can be measured by the quality of the product that graduates.

His mother, St. Helena, herself a devout Christian, set off for Jerusalem in search of the true Cross. She found that the Emperor Hadrian had erected a statue of Jupiter and a temple to Venus on Calvary. These were torn down and excavations were begun. The workmen finally reported that they had found the cross together with the nails and other souvenirs of Christ's crucifixion.

They carried all three of them to Jerusalem and there, by earnest prayer, they applied them one by one to the body of a sick woman. One of the crosses brought a cure, and the Empress Helena knew that the true Cross was in her possession.

The precious relic was divided into three sections; one went to Jerusalem, and the other two had been chosen as the capital of his empire; the second was taken to Rome, where it was venerated in what is now called the Church of the Holy Cross in Jerusalem.

SGT. HUDDLESTON ON ARMY TEAM

Sgt. Walter Huddleston, son of the Reverend W. F. Huddleston, of Jeffersontown, Kentucky, was an outstanding member of the 38th Infantry "Rocks," newly crowned champions of the Second Infantry Division Basketball League at Camp Swift, Texas.

Sgt. Huddleston was an aggressive guard on the team which was composed of many former college stars. The 38th Infantry quintet, competing against the leading clubs in Texas, amassed a record of 10 victories while absorbing only two defeats.

In the last second "Indianhead" Division Loss, the conquering representatives of the 38th Regiment shattered all existing scoring marks as they chalked up eight consecutive victories.

Even in literature it is interesting to know just what has been absorbed in his sketchy school years.

What is his training in business leadership? Has the school done more than emphasize the natural bent of a few pupils or has it given a sure and logical foundation to all pupils in this important branch of living?

It is common knowledge that the impression made on children's minds during the formative years are the most lasting and indelible. The errors that are absorbed in childhood stay with him throughout his life. What we do for our children is really the inability of the man to discard the misinformation he stored up and the unconsciousness during his youth.

You, Mr. and Mrs. Reader, are today following a mental path that is impossible. It is not. Voluntarily but forced because you have given authority to two forgotten processes of your mind.

These early stamps or mental footprints often twist the life of the adult out of shape and make him a misfit. He is bigoted, intolerant, selfish, shallow, inordinately acquisitive, sensitive, jealous, reactionary, inferior or otherwise marked by faults in early training.

He is an intelligent, understanding and capable leadership during his school years can avoid the planting of these mental quirkies in your children.

The attitude of the teacher, the first real outside process any child comes in contact has an over-riding effect on the child's mind.

Kentucky Health Improves In 1945

Kentucky's health record in 1945, according to the preliminary figures just released by Mr. J. F. Blackley, State Registrar and Director of the Division of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health, was in most respects better than it had been in any of the preceding war years. The crude death rate in 1945 was considerably lower than in 1944, with 87 deaths per 1,000 population as compared to 101 per 1,000 in 1944.

During the twelve months of 1945, a total of 25,689 deaths (excluding still-births) were recorded, as against an aggregate of 26,703 in the preliminary report for the preceding year. Previous experience indicates that delayed certificates received during the first three months of 1946, and certificates received for Kentucky residents who died outside the State during 1945, will increase this number by about 1,500 deaths, but it is not expected that trends observed will be changed significantly in the final report. The crude death rate of these expected additions, all comparisons with the preceding year are made on that basis of a similar period of twelve months rather than on final figures for the year.

The proportion of the total deaths falling in the higher age brackets continued to increase. Particularly in the true child age group above 70, in which a total of 9,900 deaths were recorded—considerably more than a third of all deaths for the year. This is not surprising in view of the fact that the percentage of total population in the upper age brackets is steadily becoming larger. It does, however, emphasize the importance, from a public health standpoint, of educating the people with regard to what may be accomplished for apparently well persons in controlling, in some measure at least, the degenerative diseases, through periodic examinations which serve to detect these diseases in their incipient years when they can be arrested if not cured. The seven leading causes of deaths in 1945 were the same as in 1944. They were, in order of frequency: heart disease, cancer, pneumonia, influenza, tuberculosis, accidents, nephritis, pneumonia, and tuberculosis.

Deaths from diseases of the heart, which continued to occupy first place in the mortality tables, decreased in number in 1945 as compared with 1944. The preliminary figures being 6,497 in 1945 as against 6,688 in 1944. Referred to the population as a whole, this means that 246 persons out of every 100,000 died from heart disease in 1945 as compared to 254 in 1944. One person out of every four who died in Kentucky last year did so as the result of some form of heart disease.

Deaths from cerebral hemorrhage, which again occupied second place in the mortality tables, also showed a decrease in number, although the rates for the two years were not significantly different. Approximately 100 persons out of every 100,000 died of cerebral hemorrhage in Kentucky in 1945.

Deaths from cancer were 2,520 in 1945 as against 2,511 in 1944. These figures represent a rise over those of all preceding years, which may be explained partly as the result of better diagnosis. Accidental deaths, although slightly fewer in number in 1945, continued in fourth place. Accidents accounted for the deaths of 1,809 persons in 1945 as compared to 1,831 in 1944.

Deaths from nephritis also showed a slight decrease, the preliminary figures being 1,702 last year, as against 1,823 during the preceding year. Deaths from pneumonia were about the same in the two years. Comparative preliminary figures are 1,590 for 1945, as against 1,590 in 1944.

Deaths from all forms of tuberculosis showed an appreciable decrease with 1,458 in 1945 as against 1,607 in 1944. While this figure will be increased in the final report for the year, it seems safe to assume that the 1945 rate for tuberculosis will be the lowest ever reported for the State. According to preliminary figures this rate is 5.1 deaths per 100,000 population as compared to 6.6 in the preliminary report for 1944.

The most striking changes in deaths from communicable diseases other than tuberculosis were in deaths from meningococcal meningitis and poliomyelitis. In 1945 there were 46 deaths from the former as compared to 71 in 1944, an epidemic year, and 10 deaths from poliomyelitis as compared to 41 the preceding year. There were only 13 deaths from measles in 1945 as compared to 51 in 1944. The 6 recorded deaths from malaria in 1945 gave a rate which was less than half the rate for 1944, or for any of the preceding war years. The 321 deaths from influenza in 1945 were also half the number in 1944. There was no change in the number of deaths from scarlet fever, and a slight decrease in deaths from whooping cough in 1945 as compared to 1944.

On the darker side of the picture there were large increases in deaths from typhoid fever and diphtheria. Deaths from typhoid rose from 22 in 1944 to 30 in 1945 and deaths from diphtheria increased from 34 to 57.

Births continued to decline from the peak year of 1942, with 56,615 recorded in 1945. This resulted in a decrease in the crude birth rate of 22.6 per 1,000 population in 1944 to 21.4 in 1945. There was a corresponding decrease in the number of maternal deaths in 1945. During the year 143 mothers died in childbirth, a rate of 2.5 out of every thousand to whom births occurred. This is the lowest rate also decreased in 1945. Out of every thousand children under one year of age in the State, 46.5 died before the end of the first year of life in 1945 as compared to 47.4 in 1944.

Kalmey Cattle Clean Up Barn Cured Hay

George Kalmey of Jefferson County, who a year ago, installed barn hay-curing equipment, is now feeding the hay cured by forced air. According to Farm Agent Shirley W. Anderson, the hay is leafy and green in color, of excellent quality and the cattle clean it up completely.

When a sample of the hay was analyzed, it was found to contain 24 percent protein, more than two-thirds of which was digestible.

Mr. Anderson reports that with the aid of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, similar barn-hay-curing equipment has been designed for use on the farm of C. G. Tachau.
